DUDLEY'S LETTER, AND THE TROUBLE IT IS CAUSING REPUBLICANS

WHO SEE THAT IT WILL HURT THEM

We Will Fight, if Necessary—General Harrison Very Wrathful Over the Above Document.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 31.—[Staff Correspondence.]—The republican leaders are in dismay today over the recent confidential letter of W. W. Dudley, which has come to light, in which he outlines his plan of campaign. In the early part of the day there was great gloom in the republican headquarters over Dudley's grit. They openly boasted that he did write the circular, and that it pointed the way to victory. Later in the day, when it leaked out that the democratic state committee were about to institute local proceedings against Dudley and his supporters, with him in the distribution of the letter, the republicans began to hedge and finally changed front. When General Harrison read the circular it is stated he grew furious. He is a man of quiet religious habits and would not personally be concerned in any scheme having the taint of corruption. One sentence of Dudley's circular assures the local committee addressed that "it will certainly receive from Chairman Huston the assistance necessary to hold our heated and doubtful voters and gain enough of the other men to give Harrison and Morton 10,000 majority." Then the workers are told to divide the electors into blocks of five to trust a trusted man with necessary funds in charge of these five and make him responsible that none get away and that all vote on ticket."

Having thus prepared the way, as he thinks, for buying enough votes to make the result close, Dudley threatens a repetition of the scenes of 1856 by saying "we will fight for a fair election here if necessary. The rebel crew can't stand this election from us, they did in 1856, without some one getting hurt." Not only General Harrison was wrathful over the infamous declarations, but intimations began to pour in upon the state republican committee, which had been in such glee in the morning, that respectable republicans by the hundred would bolt the party if the authenticity of the Dudley letter could be established.

The members of the committee began to throw out hints that the letter was a democratic forgery, designed to offset the Sackville-West episode. To this the democrats at once replied that they had positive proof of its authenticity. The original copy of the letter is in the possession of Mr. S. E. Morse, the editor of the Sentinel. It covers two sheets of paper and is written on the engraved heads-of-the-papers of the democratic committee, printed with typewritten matter. The first page, on which was written the name of the person to whom it is said to have been addressed, has been cut off, close to the first. The matter is printed with a type-writer, of the italic style of letter, and the lines are close together. It is difficult to determine how the signature was written. Mr. Morse thinks that it was written with an ordinary pen, but it looks like some uncommon instrument had been used. The lines are very fine, and lines are discernible that were not traced by the ink.

Mr. Morse was asked if there was any evidence connected with the letter that had not been made public. "None that I care to speak of now. But I will tell the grand jury what I know."

Suppose no one doubts that it is genuine." "Yes, republicans question its authenticity. They believe it is a forgery."

THE CIRCULAR IS GENUINE.

"I have not the least doubt that it is genuine. I do not believe that Dudley will say that it is his signature that the letter bears. It was examined by bankers, business men and experts, who are familiar with Dudley's writing and all agreed that there was no doubt that it was Dudley's signature. There is no question, in my mind, on that point."

Mr. Sheirer, the secretary of the democratic committee, talked freely about the matter. When asked how the letter came into the possession of the democrats, he said: "It was sent to Mr. Hewitt, the chairman of the state committee. The gentleman who received it from Dudley tore the address from the top of the first page for reasons of his own. I have no doubt, whatever, that the letter was sent out by Dudley."

"It has been our fate," said he, "to be shot at and boycotted. Who is going to carry second? As I was coming up to the hall with Mrs. Gougar, two negroes were ahead of us. Said one to the other: 'John, da needs your vote, but it looks like some uncommon instrumen' had been used. The lines are very fine, and lines are discernible that were not traced by the ink."

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, October 31.—Stock market today was very strong in the morning, it became heavy later in the day, though most of the list was slightly higher this evening. There was no pressure against the list. London was a buyer, which induced considerable covering of shorts, and in limited number of stocks, which were added to the list. The price has been soon satisfied, however, and with intense dullness came more confidence to the bears and further short lines were put out, with the effect of wiping out a great majority of the early advances. A firm toner prevailed, and some of the gains were recovered. The general list advanced, and the market was quiet. The movement of stock was in southern stocks, which were helped by stories in regard to the acquisition of the Atlantic Coast line, and the good showing of some of them in the matter of earnings, and some of the upward jumps. The market was very strong, but there was no liquidation by Boston, and the movements of that stock were made within narrow limits and its final change was insignificant. Missouri Pacific was again strong, and many rumors of an agreement between that company and Atchison were circulated with considerable effect. There was some confusion in Union Pacific, but there was no real movement. The market was quiet, which was traded in over a range of only 3¢ for the day. Cotton oil was active and consequently prices, under covering of shorts, advanced rather easily. May delivery, which is the leading future, opened weak, and 3½¢ lower than the previous day, but closed 1½¢ higher, having declined by more than ruled within narrow range, for while selling 1¢ up, later 1¢, declined 1½¢, and then advanced 2½¢, fluctuated some, and closed about 5¢ higher than yesterday.

The feeling in corn was unsettled, though easier with the volume of trading, rather light, and fluctuating between 75¢ and 78¢. The bearish tone of the market was evident, but the list showed below closing of yesterday, when offerings were quite free, and prices receded 3¢, recovered, rallied easy, and closed 3½¢ lower. Interest was larger in November, and fluctuations of this month were largely to the operations of a large local holder, who was selling early in the day and buying later.

Quito an active speculative trade, in oats was witnessed. It was centered in May and a number of round lots changed hands. There was a good demand and buyers were usually accommodated, still a steady feeling prevailed, and there was no material change in yesterday's quotations.

November wheat was less active, but held steady, with heavy mark and a shrinkage of 5¢ in value.

October closed quiet, about tides being settled.

The following was the range in the leading futures in Chicago today:

WHEAT—Opening..... November 11½¢; December 11½¢; January 11½¢.

CORN—Opening..... November 10½¢; December 10½¢; January 10½¢.

OATS—Opening..... November 9½¢; December 9½¢; January 9½¢.

When it comes to buying a watch or any other article of jewelry, the average person is at sea. Very few people are able to judge values in this line, and are therefore entirely at the mercy of the jeweler. Consequently, the query naturally arises, "Where shall I buy?" We can say for ourselves that we keep only first-class goods; we tell a customer just what he is getting and charge no more than an article is worth.

Remember, we will give the Diamond Ring to one of our customers November 1st.
